I SAY, RALLY OLD MAN

2 Veteran Steel Men To Retire

Retirement of William B. Sykes, general foreman-electrical maintenance, and John T. Robinson, turn foreman 12-inch rolling mill — each of whom joined the company in 1924 — has been announced by E. C. Kinyon, general superintendent of the Torrance Works of U.S. Steel's Columbia-Geneva Division.

It was simultaneously announced that Julian Fronk has been transferred from U.S. Steel's Geneva Works in Utah to succeed Sykes, and Joseph W. Donofrio, 12-inch mill finisher at Torrance, has been named to Robinson's post.

Sykes, who lives at 1521 Cota Ave., began his 38-year career with the company Sept. 14, 1924, as an electrician. He served successively as electrical inspector and assistant chief electrician before appointed general foreman-electrical maintenance in 1952.

ROBINSON, 1324 Beech St., joined Torrance Works April 10, 1924, as a hot bed man. He became turn foreman 12-inch mill in 1949, after holding positions of strander and roller in the intervening years.

Sykes attended St. Martin's Grade School in his native England before coming to Loma, Calif., to enroll at Narbonne High School. He is a Mason and member of Electrical Maintenance Engineers Assn. of California and Assn. of Iron and Steel Engineers.

A native of Pueblo, Colo., Robinson is a member of Masonic Lodge and Columbia Acacia Club. He and his wife, Roma, have a daughter, Pauline.

FRONK JOINED the Geneva

Works as an electrical helper in 1943, after attending Lincoln High School in his native Ogden and Brigham Young University. He has continued his studies with International Correspondence School. His wife, Velma, and six children, who now live in Orem, Utah, will join him at the end of the school term to make their home at 4502 Highgrove Ave. Fronk was maintenance foreman at Geneva Works before his transfer.

Donofrio, who lives at 741 Sartori Ave., with his wife, Elvera, and two sons, joined the Torrance Works in 1935 as a laborer. He was a finisher on the 12-inch mill before his promotion to turn foreman.

Donofrio served in the submarine service in World War II as a master machinists mate first class.

Club Hears Impromptu Speeches

Impromptu speaking was the keynote of last week's meeting of Southbay Toastmaster's Club 280, held at the Redondo Beach Elks' Club.

All club members and guests were called on in the early part of the meeting to give short, off the cuff talks on assigned subjects in a practice to "think on their feet," as meeting chairman John Chadwick of Manhattan Beach termed it.

Following the intermission, five of the regular club members, James McDonald of Manhattan Beach; Dr. Wilmet Labit, Don Payne and Richard Squire, all of Torrance, and Thomas Eadie of Hollywood Riviera gave full length, unhearsed speeches.

Eadie's talk on his recent trip to his former home, Scotland, was the highlight of the evening, but it was agreed that all the speakers did a fine job with their assignments through their training in Toastmastering.

CLUB PRESIDENT James McDonald summarized the meeting by emphasizing that he felt was the "demonstration of the value of Toastmastering to business and professional men," and he applied the lessons of Toastmastering to all business and social activities.

Further information regarding Toastmasters may be had by calling Dr. W. J. Labit at FR 5-3611.
